Ford may delay planned boosts

Oil tariff compromise near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford may act early next week to delay his new oil tariffs in order to provide time to develop a White House-Congress joint blueprint for fighting the recession and reducing oil imports.

After meeting with Democratic leaders on Friday, the President said he might delay his planned tariffs. Press Secretary Ron Nessen said that if Ford takes such action it will come on Monday or Tuesday.

It was the first indication that Ford might back down on the oil tariff, the first step of his energy program, in an effort to work out a compromise with Congress.

Ford described the energy-economy program prepared by a Senate-House task force as a "carefully thought-out" effort that "can possibly be meshed with ours."

Ford's program aims to reduce energy consumption by sharply raising the price of fuel through new taxes and removal of federal price controls.

In contrast, the Democrats are emphasizing the need to fight recession, even if that requires a delay in reducing reliance on imported oil.

As the first step of his program, Ford imposed a $3-per-barrel special tax on imported oil. The first $1 went into effect on Feb. 1, the second was due today, and the third $1 is scheduled to become effective on April 1.

In opening the possibility of delaying the second and third increments, Ford said he could take such action retroactively.

Meanwhile, in other economic developments:

—The federal government said it will reduce from 8.5 per cent to 8 per cent the maximum interest that can be charged on a federally-insured home mortgage.

—Government statistics showed that an additional 700,000 persons were on the rolls of the food stamp program in January, a slowdown in the rate of growth from the previous month.

—The Agriculture Department said prices farmers received for raw agricultural products dropped 4 per cent from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15. It was the fourth consecutive monthly decline.

—Prime rate cuts at the nation's two largest banks kept the stock market ahead. The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 7.90 but wound up with a loss of 10.72 for the week. San Francisco's Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, and No. 2 First National City Bank of New York both dropped the prime one-quarter point to 8 1/4 per cent, a move followed by several other banks.

—Ford Motor Co. said 1,375 workers now on indefinite layoff will be back on the job next week. The auto maker said it will have 16,700 employees on temporary furlough, 15,025 fewer than this week.

—Shell Oil Co. increased its gasoline prices by two cents a gallon, blaming the action partially on a federal regulation aimed at equalizing crude oil costs among refiners.

Before Friday's meeting with Senate and House leaders, Ford and his spokesmen had insisted that there was no way to discuss an energy compromise with Congress until the Democrats came up with their own program.

The Democrats have developed their own program, and both houses of Congress have voted to block for 90 days the $3 import tariff. Ford has promised to veto that delay.

Ford said the main purpose of the tariff was to pressure Congress into acting on the remainder of his energy program. Democrats say the tariffs, which would raise the price of all fuels but especially gasoline, would damage the fight against recession and set off a new round of inflation.

Ford is expected to consider whether to delay the second and third portions of the import tariff as he spends the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat.

In his meeting with the Democratic leaders Ford had nothing to say against the $21.3-billion tax cut voted by the House, Nessen said.

However, the President strongly objected to a feature, added on the House floor, that repeals the oil depletion allowance, the press secretary said.

Nessen said Ford fears a Senate battle over the depletion allowance could delay enactment of the anti-recession tax cut.

The Senate Finance Committee starts work on the tax cut on Tuesday.

Youth arrested after robbing cab driver and stealing taxi

An 18-year-old youth was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers Friday and charged with grand theft and robbery after allegedly stealing a taxi cab at gunpoint.

Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott reported that Ralph E. Broomfield of Columbus, was charged after fleeing to Mount Sterling in a taxi from the Court House Cab Co., 107 N. Hinde St. Police said Broomfield also stole an undetermined amount of cash from the taxi cab driver.

According to the report, Broomfield had summoned a taxi from the K-Mart store, Columbus Avenue, at 9:40 p.m. Friday, and instructed the driver to take him to the Storybrook apartment complex, intersection of Columbus and Glenn avenues.

The taxi cab driver, whose name police did not release, told investigating officers that Broomfield, who was seated in back of the vehicle, pressed what felt like a gun against the back of the driver's head and ordered him to keep driving north on Columbus Avenue.

When they reached the intersection of Columbus and Glenn avenues, Broomfield told the driver to stop and move over so he could drive. The driver exited and upon noticing an oncoming vehicle, ran toward it and escaped. Broomfield drove off.

An all-points bulletin was transmitted and law enforcement officials from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, the Washington C.H. Police Department, the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, the Mount Sterling Police Department and the Ohio Highway Patrol, joined in the search for Broomfield and the stolen cab.

Washington C.H. Police Specialist Larry Hott was the first to catch up with Broomfield at the northern edge of Mount Sterling at 9:59 p.m. Friday.

Specialist Hott arrested Broomfield and transported him to the city jail, where he is presently incarcerated in lieu of bond.

Bicentennial celebration opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today marks the start of an official 22-month celebration of the 200th birthday of the American republic.

Congress chose the date arbitrarily; no major historic event occurred on March 1, 1775. April 19 is the 200th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord — generally regarded as the start of the American Revolution.

July 4, 1776, is usually regarded as the nation's birthday since the Declaration of Independence was signed on that date.

There are hundreds of anniversaries coming up, and many of them will be marked by pageantry, parades and patriotic speeches.

Few of them will have federal financial support, although thousands have been endorsed by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration as being worthy of corporation and private backing.

A predecessor commission decided against choosing any one city as the focus of bicentennial activities, but said there should be major observances in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Miami.

The bicentennial administration has a $10 million yearly budget through 1976, but only for administration, grants to states and for planning.

Some other federal agencies have made grants for bicentennial projects. The National Endowment for the Humanities is helping support publication of histories of each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

The National Endowment for the Arts is helping commission new musical works and a variety of other bicentennial-related projects.

The National Park Service has made extensive improvements at national historic sites related to the Revolution. The Smithsonian Institution is planning a score of events, including a summer-long Festival of American Folklife on the national Mall.

But most major projects are dependent on corporate and other private support. The Bicentennial Administration says it has a list of worthy projects that will require $50 million.

Lions variety show in last rehearsals

The cast of the Washington C. H. Lions Club annual variety show will complete rehearsals tonight in preparation for the production Monday and Tuesday nights.

The musical comedy production will be presented at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Washington C. H. Middle School auditorium.

Last-minute preparations will be made during the final practice session at 5 p.m. tonight and a full dress rehearsal at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Middle School auditorium. All Fayette County senior citizens have been invited to attend the dress rehearsal as special guests of the Lions Club.

APPROXIMATELY 120 members of the Lion and Lioness clubs are involved in the many aspects of the annual production which is entitled, "The Four Seasons."

The show has been an annual event in Washington C. H. continuously since the first performance was staged in the old Fayette Theatre in 1936.

Last year's show raised approximately $2,000. Proceeds from the variety show are used in the Lions Club's sight-saving program and much of the money is spent locally for eye examinations and glasses.

Tickets, priced at $1.50 per person, can still be purchased from any member of the Lions Club or at the door the nights of the performances. There are no reserved seats for the two performances.

Chrysler extends rebate program

DETROIT (AP) — The Chrysler Corp. has extended a limited rebate program, but other U.S. car makers say they're optimistic that the modest auto sales rebound will continue without such a purchase incentive.

Chrysler, the first auto maker to offer rebates in mid-January, announced Friday that it will grant $200 discounts for the first three weeks of March on all remaining new 1974 models and on its 1975 compact custom sports coupes.

That doesn't begin to match the rebates of $200 to $600 the No. 3 auto maker and its competitors have offered for the past six weeks on a wide range of 1975 models.

General Motors and American Motors are shunning continued rebates in favor of base price reductions stemming almost entirely from decreases in the amount of standard equipment offered on each model.

Ford Motor Co. said it would allow buyers to get similar price reductions by specifying equipment cuts like taking bias-belted tires instead of radial-ply tires, which are standard equipment.

Ford also is offering discounts of from $83 to $113 for eliminating such options as vinyl roofs, whitewall tires and deluxe trims, on special orders of some small models.

The auto makers were taking a loss on every car sold with a discount. Industry observers say Ford, Chrysler and American Motors are losing money heavily this quarter and that GM is barely in the black.

Despite widespread publicity, the rebate program which ended Friday for all of the major auto makers except Chrysler failed to bring the industry out of its severe sales slump.

The rebates, however, did help the makers reduce record inventories by 125,000 units, leaving 1.53 million unsold new cars on hand.

While last-minute rebate seekers flooded dealerships late this week, industry observers were wondering whether sales will slip back to the disastrous levels of early January.

The auto makers expressed optimism that the worst is over for the troubled industry.

"We fully anticipate that our dealership traffic will remain high, and that our car sales at retail will reflect the solid price-and-value opportunities available to our customers," said Ford Vice President John B. Naughton.

Sales in the first two thirds of February barely reached the levels of a year ago, when the Middle East oil embargo kept thousands of potential buyers away from car showrooms. Sales in the first 10 days of January had been down 32.5 per cent from the depressed level of 1974.

Some 257,500 auto workers will be on layoffs this week, 211,800 of them indefinitely, as the makers continue to cut costs and limit production. The figure, down from 260,955, represents 37 per cent of the industry's 683,000 hourly workers.

License law takes effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New licensing procedures for Ohio's motor vehicles go into effect Saturday, the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles said.

The new rules result from a switch to a staggered registration schedule and license plate validation stickers instead of the issuance of new license plates annually.

The state's seven million vehicle owners will be affected, a bureau spokesman said.

The spokesman explained the new procedures:

Owners of nonpassenger vehicles such as trucks, trailers, campers, motorcycles and all other vehicles except passenger vehicles must register between March 1 and May 31.

Passenger vehicle owners whose last names begin with letters A-K must register between April 1-30.

Passenger vehicle owners whose last names begin with letters L-Z must register between May 1-31.

COW PASTURE NOW JUNKYARD — This car, driven by 19-year-old Richard Thomas, believed to be from Dayton, was demolished Friday afternoon, on U.S. 35, near the Inskeep Road intersection. Thomas escaped serious injury, but has been admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital. His auto was airborne 75 feet and skidded out of control a total of 910 feet, before flipping over once and coming to rest in this field owned by Alfred Hagler, 5162 Inskeep Road. Parts of his car, like the battery in the foreground, were strewn over the field. Pictured are Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks, walking next to Deputy Dave Krupla (far right) and two unidentified men from the wrecking service which towed the car to a real junkyard.

Auto demolished

Driver escapes serious injury in rural mishap

A 19-year-old man, believed to be from Dayton, miraculously escaped serious injury when his car was demolished at 1:50 p.m. Friday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported a car driven by Richard Thomas (whose address is still being confirmed), traveled onto the right berm of U.S. 35-NW, 130 feet from the Inskeep Road intersection, at a high rate of speed and then skidded to the left side of the road 115 feet. The car then became airborne a distance of 75 feet, landed, skipped 21 feet into a fence owned by Alfred Hagler, 5162 Inskeep Road, flipped over and skidded another 345 feet out into Hagler's field.

Thomas was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment of multiple lacerations and abrasions and admitted. Hospital officials list his present condition as satisfactory.

Thomas was charged by sheriff's deputies with reckless operation.

A second accident, which occurred in the village of Jeffersonville, was also reported by sheriff's deputies.

A car driven by Patrick B. McDermott, 79, Jeffersonville, backed across Fent Street and struck a parked car owned by Lester G. Cook, Jeffersonville, at 3:45 p.m. Friday. Damage was minor.

Floor vote set on bond issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders have set floor votes for Monday on their own versions of Gov. James A. Rhodes' transportation and housing plans as well as a controversial $2.5 billion bond issue for cities.

The four resolutions need legislative approval by Wednesday to qualify for the June 3 primary ballot.

Major surgery had been predicted for the wide-ranging bond issue because of Democratic resistance to a seven-tenths of a cent increase in the state sales tax proposed by Rhodes to finance the plan.

However, the issue flew out of committee unexpectedly late Thursday night with only minor changes and the sales tax hike untouched.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said the bill was moved after indications that "if the funding of the proposal is changed in any way to an income tax... the governor would oppose it."

Democratic legislators were known to be considering amendments to replace the sales tax increase with an adjustment in the state income tax, probably effecting upper brackets.

While the city bond issue was given some hope for passage, the Republican governor's ambitious plan to attract industry to Ohio with massive tax breaks appeared to be dying a slow death in the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Majority Democrats insist passage of all four proposed constitutional amendments is conceivable within the three-day time frame, assuming Republicans agree to suspension of procedural rules.

The tax abatement plan languished in the Senate Ways and Means Committee over the weekend after only four members — one short of a quorum — showed up for a Friday meeting to consider the bill.

With three Democrats and one Republican at the committee table,

Chairwoman Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, scheduled another meeting for Monday afternoon while blaming GOP sponsors for the delay.

A subcommittee has already scaled down the 30-year proposed tax moratorium for manufacturers to a five to 20 year range and said the legislature should decide what industries were eligible.

However, even if the revised resolution escapes the committee Senate President Pro Tem Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, has predicted it will not pass the floor by Wednesday.

Ocasek has also vowed to lead the fight against any sales tax increase, if and when the city bond proposal reached the Senate.

Democratic legislators give the best chance for eventual passage to the housing program to permit the state to issue mortgage revenue bonds, and the transportation plan, cut in committee from $1.64 billion to $1 billion.

Jurors return two innocent, one guilty verdict against area man

A jury of five women and three men deliberated over three hours Friday evening in Washington C. H. Municipal Court before finding an area man innocent on two of three charges filed against him by a Fayette County Sheriff's deputy.

Rodger D. Pauley, 24, Ohio 73, formerly of Washington C. H., was found innocent of charges of disorderly conduct by abusive language and resisting arrest but guilty of assault as charged by Deputy Larry Camp Nov. 23, 1974.

Acting Judge Omar A. Schwartz fined Pauley $100 and suspended a 30-day jail sentence pending two years good behavior on the assault charge following the verdicts.

Pauley was arrested by Deputy Camp last November just outside the city limits on Pearl Street after Deputy Camp was called to the scene by Washington C. H. Police Specialist Larry Hott who had approached Pauley during a routine investigation.

Deputy Camp stated during testimony Friday morning he had arrested Pauley after he used abusive language toward Specialist Hott. Deputy Camp testified Pauley showed signs of resistance when he attempted to place him under arrest and he requested assistance from Specialist Hott.

Deputy Camp said both he and Specialist Hott pushed Pauley's head down against the hood of the car, handcuffed him behind his back and placed him in Deputy Camp's cruiser for transporting to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Camp continued, stating that en route to the Sheriff's department a scuffle erupted in the cruiser when Pauley kicked Jerry Coffey, a civilian riding in the cruiser, in the back of the head. Deputy Camp stated he stopped the cruiser and observed Coffey strike the defendant in the mouth with a five-cell flashlight.

Pauley, taking the stand in his own defense Friday afternoon, testified Specialist Hott had pulled up beside his vehicle on Pearl Street requesting his driver's license. Pauley stated he went to his mother's house across the street to have his sister get his driver's license, returned to Specialist Hott, who "told me he would have to take me in."

Pauley said he told Hott he was out of his jurisdiction and would have to call for a sheriff's deputy. Pauley stated that once Deputy Camp and Coffey arrived he reached for the doorknob to his car when all three men grabbed him.

Pauley said he was hit and pushed into the car hood face first and he attempted to "fight loose." He added that after he was handcuffed, he was "literally thrown in the cruiser."

Pauley admitted he had kicked Coffey in the head and that Coffey had struck him in the mouth with the flashlight. Once at the sheriff's department, Pauley said he had requested medical assistance that night and the next morning but received none.

Pauley's sister and mother-in-law testified they observed cuts and bruises on Pauley's face after he was released from jail the next morning.

In closing arguments, both Washington C. H. city solicitor Gary D. Smith, representing the state, and defense attorney James Kingsley of Circleville, relied heavily on the question of credibility.

Smith asked, "In using common sense, is it good common sense to grab the defendant, instinctively beat him up, throw him in the cruiser and take him to the station?"

He added that although there were "minor discrepancies" in the testimonies of Specialist Hott, Deputy Camp and Coffey, the witnesses had "just told to the best of their knowledge what they thought happened" and it suggested the witnesses "did not rehearse" the events of the arrest.

Kingsley argued "police officers do make mistakes" and questioned the credibility of the officers due to the inconsistencies in the testimonies.

He stated all three witnesses for the prosecution testified the abusive language used by Pauley did not "annoy or upset" them and therefore, was not disorderly, and questioned whether Pauley was resisting his lawful arrest or was acting in self defense.

Seated on the jury were foreman Phillip L. Grover, Barbara Riley, Dorothy Thacker, Virginia L. Dunn, Patricia A. Albright, William Pool, James E. Bonham and Betty Carson.

Columbus has curse on lottery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Once, a chance. Twice, perhaps a coincidence. But thrice and gamblers here whisper about a curse.

Three times a Columbus man won $300,000 in the new Ohio lottery, and each time the winner wound up afool of the law.

The lottery's first Buckeye 300 winner William C. Culver Jr., a 55-year-old laborer, relaxed after being assured $15,000 a year for the next two decades.

But when his former wife, Tessie Culver Hall, found out about the new fortune, she sued him for 16 years of back child support. She won one of the year's money.

Two weeks ago, printer Cassius C. Yoakum, 51, held the lucky numbers. The day after he received the first $15,000 check he was arrested for driving while intoxicated and being left of center, municipal court records show. His case is pending.

Then Joseph Edward Brown, 37, won. He was bound for prison Friday after being sentenced in Franklin County Common Pleas Court to 3-15 years for burglary and vandalism.

He pleaded guilty to the charges Nov. 7 of stealing a stereo, clock radio, television and some other items valued at $700.

Clemency extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 123,000 remaining Vietnam-era deserters and draft evaders have until March 31 to sign up for clemency under what President Ford called the final extension of the program.

Ford granted the second one-month extension Friday.

Chairman Charles E. Goodell of the Clemency Board said that for "anybody who applies after midnight March 31 it will be a sad April Fool's Day."

The program began Sept. 16 and Ford's statement said he extended the program beyond the Friday deadline "based on a further review of the progress of this program," which showed "many of those who already have been punished are only now learning they are eligible."

He said "this is confirmed by the large number of applications ... which continue to be filed" with the board.

Moyer heads Rhodes' staff

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James Rhodes named Thomas J. Moyer, 35, Friday as his executive assistant, succeeding John M. McElroy, who resigned.

The Republican governor did not indicate whether Moyer would assume the wide range of duties handled by McElroy, 66, who was Rhodes' right hand man for eight years during his previous two terms.

Moyer moves up from a $24,710-a-year legislative assistant post.

Blind veteran shows way for others to be nicer

PORTLAND, Ore. — "He's made us all get out of our ruts and see another side of life," says Mike Johnson's foreman.

Johnson was blinded and lost his right hand in Vietnam. But despite his handicaps, Johnson operates a drill press at a tool company.

"When I'm feeling blah and I see this guy come into the lunch room whistling and singing and cracking jokes, well, I figure I've got a lot of appreciating to do," said foreman Bill Lewallen.

In Vietnam, Johnson said, he "picked up a live grenade, that's all. One of the guys ahead of me had a hand grenade in his belt and it fell off. I picked it up — involuntary reaction, I guess."

"I was going to throw it off into the surrounding rice paddies, but I didn't quite make it...."

"That's the breaks, you know. You could get yourself blinded or have your arm taken off in an industrial accident or a car accident or anywhere else. It just happened that for me it was Vietnam and there was a war."

After Vietnam, the 26-year-old veteran completed two years of machinist training at a local community college. The Portland Center for the Blind, a division of the Oregon Blind Commission, recommended him to Proto Tool Co., the Portland area firm that hired him.

"He's the first blind person we've hired — and he's the most excellent person we've hired," Lewallen said. "The fifth day after he came here he was performing his job at 95 per cent of the standard working rate. The 'average' person should be able to achieve 100 per cent.

"Do you want to know what Mike's performance is now? It's 104 to 107 per cent. He's inspired everybody in this place to increase his own efficiency, too."

Mike is modest. He says the exuberance he shows at work "isn't that much — but it is nice to hear the compliments. It's just as easy to smile as it is to be grouchy."

Miller to speak at Shepherds Club banquet

By JOHN P. GRUBER
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
Final plans were made this past week by directors of the Shepherds Club for the 35th annual Fayette County Shepherds Club banquet which is scheduled for Wednesday, March 5, 6:30 p.m. in the Mahan Building. Bob Miller, director of agricultural activities for WLW Radio and AVCO Broadcasting, will be the speaker for this year's banquet.

Tickets for the Shepherds Club banquet are on sale at the County Extension Office or from any Shepherds Club director. Cost of the tickets is $4 per person. As is the normal custom for the banquet the Shepherds Club is making tickets available at half price to 4-H and FFA members with lamb projects.

The banquet, featuring roast lamb is open to the public. The Shepherds Club extends an invitation to everyone to attend the banquet - enjoy the delicious lamb smorgasbord and program.

RESERVATIONS for the March 7 cattlefeeders tour are due in by Monday, March 3rd. Cost of this year's hour is $8 per person.

The annual cattlefeeders tour will take in the research facilities of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster, and two Wayne County beef operations. The tour will conclude with a T-Bone dinner at a Wooster restaurant.

Cattlefeeders and area businessmen who plan to attend are reminded that the tour is by reservation only - on a first come - first served basis. Reservations are requested by March 3 but will be accepted until the bus is full.

SOYBEAN PRODUCERS should keep in mind that March 4, 5 and 6 are the days on which they will be able to voice their opinion on the Ohio Soybean Referendum. Voting will be at the County Extension Office.

Each soybean producer has the opportunity to vote for or against the 1/2c per bushel check-off which would be used to finance foreign market development and soybean research. It should be pointed out that if the referendum passes each soybean producer will have the opportunity to request a refund of his money if he feels it is not being spent in his best interest. Who can vote? Each producer is entitled to one vote for each production unit. A production unit has been defined to be each farming unit for which separate records must be kept. In cases of partnerships or landlord - tenant situations the person holding the largest interest is entitled to vote.

Soybean producers are encouraged to become informed on the referendum issue and cast their ballot next Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday.

A TOTAL of 41 hogs were entered in the winter pork carcass evaluation contest. Thirty-six of the barrows were in the qualifying weight range and were evaluated on foot Wednesday evening at the Producers Livestock Association.

The barrows were trucked to Dinner Bell Foods, Troy for the carcass evaluation Thursday and Friday.

Cut-out results and winners will be announced at the results dinner at the Terrace Lounge Wednesday, March 12, 7 p.m. Each pork producer who entered a barrow in the evaluation will receive a free pork chop dinner.

WELCOME TO Fayette County this weekend to the members of the Ohio Hereford Association. These folks are in town for their 26th annual spring show and sale at the Fayette County Fairgrounds today, Saturday, March 1.

MARCH 15 is the deadline for submitting farm records for analysis through the Ohio State University farm business analysis program. Farmers who want to take advantage of this low cost, computerized approach to record analysis should give me a call at the Extension Office to obtain the necessary forms and details on the program.

Utilizing cash receipts and expensive records, depreciation, crop, livestock, and inventory records the farm business analysis can provide an objective evaluation of the overall farm situation. The program also provides individual analysis of each enterprise in the farming operation.

In addition to the record analysis the program provides a detailed financial statements, labor evaluation and crop and livestock summaries.

Soybean referendum vote set March 4-6

An estimate 55,000 Ohio soybean producers will be voting March 4, 5, and 6 on a one-half cent per bushel checkoff to be used to finance a soybean marketing and research program. Fayette County soybean producers will be voting at the Fayette County Extension Office, 319 S. Fayette St.

The purpose of the referendum is to determine whether soybean producers are in favor of a one-half cent per bushel checkoff on each bushel of soybeans produced in Ohio. If the referendum passes soybean producers will have control of the program. Soybean producers will be appointed to the Ohio Soybean Operating Committee. This committee will be the only agency that can spend the funds generated through the one-half cent checkoff program.

If the referendum passes and soybean producers are not satisfied - or are not in favor of the program each soybean producer will have the right to ask for a refund of this money.

The funds generated from the program will be used for foreign market development and soybean production research. Over 50 per cent of all U.S. soybeans are exported. Thus, the future for price increases and increases in demand for soybeans is a constantly increasing demand overseas. Approximately 60 per cent of the funds from the checkoff would be used for market development.

The goal of soybean research supported by the one-half cent per bushel checkoff would be more profit per acre. Research that would provide a 10 per cent increase in yield would net Ohio soybean producers about $17.50 per acre. Researchers are looking at ways to eliminate disease, weed, insect, and harvesting losses. Research is needed to reduce losses and increase yields to assure producers of maximum production from every acre.

slipped 3 to 4 per cent below 1973's record as the result of grain harvests being smaller than expected, but Pope said those harvests still were the second largest in history.

Pope's report, published in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture," did not speculate on what the surge in Soviet livestock production may hold for U.S. grain exports.

USDA officials have indicated for several years that Russia's goals for upgrading consumer diets could lead to sustained sales of U.S. feed.

The Soviets currently are buying relatively small quantities of corn and wheat, held in check by limited U.S. stocks and government export policies.

But some officials believe long-term sales are possible if Russia continues to invest as heavily in its livestock sector as now indicated.

Livestock producers feeding hay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock producers have fed a record amount of hay to cattle this season in an effort to trim the use of higher-priced grain rations. The greater demand has caused hay prices to soar.

According to Agriculture Department feed specialists, the "disappearance" or use of hay since the crop's marketing year began last May 1 totaled a record 67.3 million tons through Dec. 31. During the same eight months of the 1973-74 season, about 65.3 million tons were consumed.

Further, says the department's Economic Research Service, the total supply of hay — meaning all types — was the smallest in three years, a total of 152.5 million tons, compared with 159.1 million in 1973-74. The main reason was that the 1974 hay crop was down nearly six per cent from 1973's record of 134.8 million tons to 127 million tons.

"Reasons for the heavy usage of hay this season are the record number of cattle on hand outside of feedlots and unfavorable feeding ratios that caused beef and milk producers to use more local roughages in relation to purchases of grain and other concentrates," the agency said in a new feed situation report.

Now, he wants to sell it!

You've been thinking about that acreage for some time — It's good land and offers a great opportunity to expand. Can you afford that big step forward! Adequate financing could be the key! Long-term credit, at competitive interest rates, through the Land Bank Association, can spread expansion costs over extra years for smaller payments. Come by soon... you may be pleasantly surprised at what you can afford.

Soviets progress in meat, poultry

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert said today that the Soviet Union is making significant progress in turning out more meat, milk and poultry for consumers despite reduced grain harvests last year.

The push by Moscow to put more of those products on Russian food tables has been watched closely by department officials for some time as a sign that the Soviet Union probably will continue as a buyer of U.S. corn and other livestock feeds.

"The major bright spot in the Soviet farm scene last year was the good performance of the livestock sector, which continued to move ahead strongly," Fletcher Pope Jr., specialist in the department's Economic Research Service, said.

Opinion And Comment

Criticism needed

William E. Colby, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, has implored Congress not to "throw the baby out with the bath water" in its inquiry into United States intelligence activities.

What Congress does intend, quite evidently, is to carry out the first searching investigation of the intelligence establishment that has ever been undertaken. Just such a probe into what the CIA, the FBI and other intelligence groups are up to is badly needed. Attempts by Colby and other apologists to portray the inquiries as potential witch hunts do not serve the public interest.

The CIA boss used the friendly defense subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee as a sounding board for his views. He maintained that "any missteps by CIA were few and far between, have been corrected and in no way justify the outcry which has been raised against CIA." Citing reports of spying on American citizens, he declared that "these exaggerations of CIA activities can do irreparable harm to our national intelligence apparatus and if carried to the extreme could blindfold our country as it looks abroad."

Granted, but is it carrying it to the extreme to note that the record shows the agency to have been involved in a variety of activities running counter to the spirit and letter of the law? Colby himself, for all his outraged defense of the CIA against its detractors, conceded among other things that files on dissidents gathered in recent years included material on four members of Congress who had the temerity to show their faces at anti-war rallies.

Members of Congress are not sacrosanct. Nevertheless, it is particularly disturbing to find the CIA not only violating the law against domestic operations, but prying into the activities of lawmakers as well as ordinary citizens.

Colby puts the agency he heads in the very best light. He argues that criticism has "placed American intelligence in danger." At the same time, his own admissions about wrongdoing by the CIA underscore the need for a thoroughgoing investigation. The CIA chief urges that this be "sober and responsible."

We join him in that. But we urge further that Congress not be put off by claims that criticism endangers the nation's intelligence apparatus. Enlightened criticism of institutions of government, including the CIA and other intelligence agencies, is an important component of the lifeblood of democracy.

Ohio marketbasket prices decline

By KEN DAVIS

Associated Press Writer

The cost of buying selected food items in a dozen Ohio cities declined in February for the second straight month, an Associated Press market-basket survey disclosed today.

With continued slackening of consumer demand still in evidence, the price of granulated sugar slumped another 10 per cent on average despite some advances in the northeastern section of the state.

Average price for five pounds of sugar among supermarkets shopped dropped to $2.40. That price average stood at $2.65 a month ago.

At least one big Ohio chain used sugar as a major leader, offering five pounds at 99 cents with a purchase of $15. Others cut the price less sharply on 10-pound sugar buys.

Bucking the lower trend, apparently scheduled to continue, were some supermarkets in Cleveland and Massillon. Cleveland markets on the shopping schedule hiked the price from $2.10, the lowest in the state last month, to $2.19. In Massillon, the price rose from $2.17 to $2.39.

The entire 16-item marketbasket in the survey cost 2 per cent less today than a month ago, down to $18.02 from $18.38 on the average.

Items on the shooting list included hamburger, chuck roast, frying chicken, center cut pork chops, milk, margarine, peanut butter, eggs, toilet tissue, bread, sugar, potatoes, coffee, detergent, chocolate chip cookies and frozen orange juice.

The cities shopped included Akron, Athens, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Conneaut, Massillon, Portsmouth, Van Wert, Youngstown, Chillicothe and Marietta.

For the first time in months, chocolate chip cookies jumped substantially in price. Held in general at 99 cents for a 14-ounce package since last October, the price rose a dime.

Potatoes, reported in good supply, eased off 3.3 per cent, from 95 to 92 cents on the average for a 10-pound bag. Price variances ranged from 59 cents in Youngstown to $1.09 in Columbus, $1.53 in Portsmouth and 98 cents in Athens.

Coupons and minimum purchase limits cut sharply into higher regular prices.

Eggs dropped steeply in February, from an average of 80 cents for a dozen medium a month ago to today's 67-cent average, a drop of 19 per cent.

Ground beef declined 9 per cent during the month, from an average of 77 cents a pound to 70 cents, due principally to big percentage reductions in Cincinnati and Marietta.

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister passed away last month and I found a yellowed clipping of your column in her Bible. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Will you please remind your readers to look after their parents who are too old to look after themselves? Old parents need all their children. It's not always easy to cope with aging parents, but we weren't easy to cope with when THEY were raising US either. We OWE it to them. I just wish someone had reminded ME of these things when Mama was alive. It's too late now and I haven't had a decent night's sleep since she died three months ago.

I knew she had a good home with my sister, so that was that. Why didn't I take her for a few weeks, or even for Sunday dinner, or for a little drive? I never have time for her, yet I had time for others, and anything else I wanted to do. A change of scenery or even a meal at my home would have meant so much to her, but I was too busy. Oh, I had plenty of excuses.

I suppose the only one in our large family who is sleeping is my sister who took Mama to live with her. I've tried to ease my conscience by telling myself that I wasn't really ashamed of Mama like my brothers were. Or that I wasn't cheap, like another sister. I DID buy her things (which she really

Sweet treats

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

ON OCCASION you can forget your diet and enjoy a yummy dessert. Use it as an excuse to whip up something superspecial for the ones you love.

Chocolate is almost everybody's "flavorite." Here, it's swirled through peppermint — flavored marshmallow pie, a dessert guaranteed to make will power weaken. But it's worth it:

PEPPERMINT SWIRL PIE

1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet real chocolate morsels

1-3 cup milk

2 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows

1/2 cup milk

1 measuring teaspoon salt

1 measuring teaspoon peppermint extract

1 measuring teaspoon red food coloring

1 cup heavy cream, whipped

1 9-inch baked pie shell

Combine over hot (not boiling) water, chocolate morsels and 1-3 cup milk; heat until morsels melt and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat; set aside.

Combine over hot (not boiling) water, miniature marshmallows, 1/2 cup milk, salt, peppermint extract and red food coloring; heat, stirring constantly, until marshmallows melt and mixture is smooth. Transfer to large bowl; chill in refrigerator until slightly thickened (45 to 60 minutes). Stir until smooth. Gently fold in whipped cream. Alternately pour into pie crust with chocolate mixture. Run knife through to marleize. Chill in refrigerator until firm (about 2 hours).

Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

There's no fuss and bother in making this dessert, and it's one that's sure to be a favorite with banana lovers:

SPICED BAKED BANANAS

3 large firm bananas

1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice

3 tablespoons sugar

1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Dash ground cloves

1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel

1 cup orange juice

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Peel bananas, cut in half crosswise and then into lengthwise halves. Dip in lemon juice; place in shallow baking pan. Pour remaining lemon juice over bananas.

Combine sugar with spices, orange peel and juice. Pour over bananas. Dot with butter.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 20 minutes. Serve with ice cream.

Serves 6.

A whole stick rather than ground cinnamon is used to flavor this fruit dessert because the whole stick releases its delightful aroma during cooking, and it will not cloud the syrup for:

BELIGANSPICED COFFEE STEWED PEARS

6 firm ripe pears

1 1/4 cups water

1 cup brewed strong coffee

1 cup light corn syrup

1 small bay leaf

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

A public funeral gives the community a chance to offer its support and to share the sorrow of the family. A pastoral psychologist has written that "the funeral and the varied events that accompany it are for those who live on." A private funeral may shut out relatives, friends, and associates who sincerely wish to attend.

Respectfully,

Richard Kirkpatrick

UCLA edges California

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A much-maligned guard made the key play as UCLA squeaked past stubborn, stalling California and headed for a ninth successive Pacific-8 Conference basketball title.

Pete Trgovich, who had been shooting just 39 per cent from the floor a month ago, stole the ball from California guard Ricky Hawthorne with 18 seconds to play Friday night, drove down and scored unmolested as the Bruins, rated No. 5, edged the Golden Bears 51-47.

"On the play before the steal, I didn't know whether the coaches wanted me to play back or gamble," said the 6-foot-5 guard from Indiana. "So I played back and doubleteamed Hawthorne.

When the return pass came, I just happened to be there and that was it."

Trgovich was fouled on the layin, made the free throw and then added two more free throws with seven seconds left.

The Bruin theme song might have been "Night and Day" for the way they played—so poorly in the first half and so well in the second.

Cal led 27-20 at intermission but Dave Meyers led UCLA back.

"Our first half was the most miserable first half played by a UCLA team in Pauley Pavilion," said Coach John Wooden. "I thought we played an exceptional game in the second half...The difference in the second half was not that Cal played poorly, but that we played so much better."

Meyers hit seven of eight from field for 16 points and in the second half the Bruins hit 13 for 16 from the field. That's 81.3 per cent.

It was UCLA's 80th consecutive victory at home and gave the Bruins a 21-3 season record, 10-2 in the Pac-8.

Across town, Southern California got 16 points each from senior Gus Williams and freshman Earl Evans as the Trojans pounded past Stanford 85-77. John Lambert's key baskets midway through the second half triggered an 8-0 spurt and gave the Trojans the lead for good.

A late basket by Lonnie Shelton helped Oregon State stay on UCLA's heels with a 44-41 triumph over stalling Washington State. The Beavers are 9-3 in the conference.

Ken Griffy gets starting position

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ken Griffey would just as soon forget the first half of the 1974 baseball season.

It was a nightmare at the plate for the Cincinnati Reds rightfielder, who found himself back in Indianapolis after a disastrous start.

"It was unreal," said Griffey, who was hitting only .159 when he was sent back to the minors. "I was jumping at balls and every pitch seemed twice as fast as it was. Curve balls looked like they broke nine feet."

Manager Sparky Anderson told Griffey that he was not making proper use of his legs.

"I told him God gave him great legs," Anderson said. "But when he strikes out 14 times in 57 at-bats, those legs are not doing him a bit of good."

Mets purchase Dave Kingman

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets need home run punch and the San Francisco Giants need money.

Both teams got what they needed Friday when the Mets purchased slugger Dave Kingman from the Giants for an estimated $100,000.

The Giants, who once demanded a Met pitcher for their inconsistent slugger, settled for cash this time because of their problems at the gate. The Giants have been one of the poorest drawing teams in baseball of late.

"If he makes contact, he can scare you," said New York Manager Yogi Berra of his newest player. "He strengthens our bench and gives us insurance in the outfield."

Kingman had publicly asked to be traded, since he wasn't playing regularly with the Giants. The rangy infielder-outfielder hit .223 in 121 games last season, but connected for 18 home runs and had 55 RBIs.

His best seasons came in 1972 and 1973, when he hit 29 and 24 home runs, respectively, while playing part-time. Those years included some tape-measure shots indicative of his ferocious power. But he also struck out a lot, indicative of his inconsistency.

It was at this time that the Giants requested southpaw Jon Matlack from the Mets in return for Kingman's services. The Mets offered them pitcher Jerry Koosman, but the Giants turned down the proposed deal.

"If Kingman plays everyday," said New York outfielder Cleon Jones, "he can probably hit 30 homers."

Pearce leads Gleason tourney

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — "I've always idolized Arnold Palmer," said young Eddie Pearce. "I've looked up to him all my life."

"I went to school (Wake Forest) on an Arnold Palmer scholarship."

"I've tried to pattern my golf game and my life after him."

And now he's got to try to beat him. Pearce, the leader, and the rejuvenated Palmer, three strokes back, were in a threesome with U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin today in the third round of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Golf Classic.

Pearce, at 22 one of the youngest men on the pro tour, rode into the second round lead with a spectacular, eight-underpar 64 that produced a tworound total of 131, 13 under par.

But the 45-year-old Palmer, playing with all the flair and fever that made him the idol of Pearce and millions of others, produced the most excitement on the 7,128 yard Inverrary Country Club course.

"Arnie's got it going."

The word spread like wildfire through the gallery. And they flocked to his side, happily, joyously joining the army of followers that has helped make the muscular man a legend.

By the time he made the turn into the back nine he was trailed by growing thousands who whooped and hollered, galloped and stampeded to gain a vantage point to view the next shot, cheered every familiar hitch of the britches.

He rewarded them with a six under-par 66—his best round in two years—and moved to within three shots of the lead at 134.

"I'm rolling the ball good again now. Rolling it real good," said the man whose well-publicized putting problems have kept him from victory since the 1973 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Nets whip St. Louis

By The Associated Press

The New York Nets prepped for their first-place showdown tonight at Kentucky by whipping the Spirits of St. Louis 117-110, the Nets' eighth straight victory over St. Louis without a loss.

The Nets were buoyed by the return to action Friday night of guard Brian Taylor, who missed three games with a sore hand, and the improved play of center Billy Paultz, who scored 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds in only his second outing since missing three games with a bad back. Paultz played 41 minutes, Taylor 37.

Nets Coach Kevin Loughery knows he will need them both for tonight's game at Louisville. New York holds a one-game lead in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association over the rugged Colonels, who have only lost two games at home all year.

"It was good to see Paultz and Taylor back together again," said Loughery.

246 Horses nominated for derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Champions, contenders, pretenders and dreamers all are included in the list of 246 nominees announced today for the 101st running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby.

The list includes John L. Greer's Foolish Pleasure, the nation's juvenile champion of last year, and Jean-Louis Levesque's L'Enjoleur, Canadian horse of the year in 1974.

It also includes Ascetic, winner of the Bahamas and Everglades Stakes this season; Hibiscus winner Ricks Jet; Gallant Bob, with five straight stakes victories, and the Panamanian flash, Gatch.

For sentiment, there is Run Trigger Run, owned by the western movie hero of yesteryear, Roy Rogers.

And for sheer, cold cash, there's Wajima, the $600,000 purchase as a yearling and a member of the last crop of the late Bold Ruler.

Of the 225 colts, 19 geldings and two fillies nominated for the world's most famous horse race, only 20 can face the starter May 3 for the 1 1/4-mile run for the American Beauty roses.

Churchill Downs has ruled that if any more than that show up at entry time, two days before the race, those with the least money won during their careers will be eliminated.

Black Hawks beat Atlanta Flames, 4-3

ATLANTA (AP) — Chicago's Darcy Rota said he didn't care who got the credit for the winning goal Friday night that lifted the Black Hawks to a 4-3 comeback victory over the Atlanta Flames. "Their defenseman actually put it in," he said.

Rota was initially credited with the goal at 14:23 of the third period, but the official scorer changed his mind after the National Hockey League game ended, giving it to Jim Pappin instead. "Anyway, we won," Rota said of the triumph that moved the Hawks into first place in Division 2, one point ahead of idle Vancouver. He said the shot actually was made by Atlanta's Ed Kea with help from Pappin.

It was the only NHL action and an uphill struggle for the Hawks, who trailed 3-0 after the opening period.

Wittenberg faces Oberlin

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)— Defending titlist Wittenberg and Oberlin meet here tonight for the Ohio Conference basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA Division 3 regional tournament.

Wittenberg, playing in its 10th title game in 15 years and favored to capture its eighth championship in that span, advanced to the showdown by defeating Capital 73-63 in the Southern Division finals here Friday night.

Oberlin, winner of only one conference championship since the tournament was structured in 1960, salvaged a 53-51 triumph over Ohio Northern in the Northern Division finale at Wooster.

Wittenberg, sporting an incredible .840 tournament winning percentage going into this year's event, caught fire at the start of the second period as Skip Freeman sank three straight baskets to move the Tigers from a two-point halftime deficit into the lead.

The Tigers hit a sizzling 80 per cent of their shots from the field in the first 10 minutes of the second half and moved ahead by a comfortable margin.

Ford gets regulations on sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has in its possession today the controversial federal rules to outlaw sex discrimination in university and colleges, including intercollegiate athletics.

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, approved the regulations Friday and sent them to President Ford for his signature.

Under an unusual provision in the 1972 law barring unequal treatment of the sexes, the complex regulations must be submitted to a 45-day congressional review after the President signs them.

Without any major legislative changes by Congress, HEW sources said, the rules should be in place in time to be enforced when schools reopen in the fall.

The final regulations have not been made public yet and a copy of them could not be obtained immediately. However, government sources said they basically are unchanged from the version proposed last June, except for a few new exemptions ordered by Congress.

thern, but the Polar Bears kept chipping away at the lead in the second period.

Northern still had life when a foul was called as the final buzzer sounded with Oberlin ahead 53-51. But Gene Phillips missed the first shot of a 1-1 situation, dashing Northern's hopes.

Merlin Friend paced Northern with 18 points. Al Donhoff of Northern took game scoring honors with 25 points.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Winter's presence, to some camera fans, is a signal to put cameras into cold storage to await more comfortable shooting days.

However, winter photography need not be an ordeal by ice or a photo feat for frozen fingers. It can be as easy as shooting winter scenes and activities from the snug harbor of a window sill or from the vantage point of an open door.

The hardest job for many is merely to get over the initial inertia of putting the camera into action. Then it gets progressively easier as you step outside and explore the area for its unique seasonal images.

To still other hobbyists, winter presents a desirable photo challenge, an opportunity for offbeat, nonroutine pictures that make a welcome change in their shooting.

True, winter brings with it a mixed bag of blessings. It can bring majestic beauty and can cause hardship and damage. A heavy snowfall can transform the world around us from familiar scenes and objects to a landscape of new visual enchantment. It can also blot out roads, tie up traffic and isolate homes and communities. Yet in either case, it presents picture opportunities worth recording.

Winter photography, however, calls for extra precautions. You must dress for protective warmth outdoors and convenience in handling equipment. Start with thermal underwear and for the vulnerable extremities wear silk socks under woolen socks before the boots go on and thin cotton or silk gloves under woolen mittens for the hands. When ready to focus and shoot, remove the outer glove and work with the thin glove for the few moments needed.

Carry the camera in a small gadget bag that can hold film, a sunshade, cable release, a telephoto lens, lens tissue and spare batteries. The gadget bag protects the camera yet gives it a chance to get almost to prevailing temperature. Sudden exposure to very cold air can cause a mist of condensation on the lens. Always inspect the lens before shooting to make sure it is clean and clear. Don't take it for granted.

The sunshade gives protection from snowflakes or flurries of fine snow and from snow flare. A cable release permits you to shoot with gloved fingers. Spare batteries may be kept on your person until needed in an emergency because batteries are affected by cold weather. These are the tiny batteries that power your built-in exposure meter. Camera shutters may also get sluggish in cold weather so keep the camera inside your parka between shots.

In heavy snowfall, an umbrella makes a canopy over photographer and camera. When both hands are needed for shooting, let the umbrella sit on your head. Advance film slowly to avoid static electricity marks or the danger of snapping brittle film.

After a storm, pictures are easier to see and handle. First there are the sparkling vistas of virgin snow. Then there are the story-telling situations as people reestablish touch with civilization, digging out paths, vehicles and homes. And phase three brings wholesome, healthy activities as sleds, skates and skis come out and children build snowmen and forts and fight their snowball battles. This is subject matter that begs for movie and still camera picturing.

For snappy, sparkling snow pictures, take advantage of sidelight and backlight on sunny days to bring out texture and subtle rainbow colors. Come in for extreme close-ups of isolated blades of grass in snowbanks with their delicate shadows or marooned flowers wearing a cap of snow.

Look for running streams cascading over snow-covered rocks and the crystal architectural designs formed by icicles along the edges. Wedge the camera firmly in place — unless you have brought a tripod — and shoot at small apertures and slow speeds, perhaps one-half second, to get sharp detail everywhere except in the rhythm of the flowing water.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM. This New England church under a threatening sky was a winter setting our columnist couldn't resist. He stopped the car to record the tranquil snow scene at Windsor, Mass.

Sports activities like skiing, skating and sledding can be pictured sharply if the action is aimed directly towards the camera. Focus on a spot about 20 feet away and set the speed at 1-200th. Hold the camera steady and squeeze the cable release when the subject reaches the predetermined spot.

For a more creative visual image of speed, try the camera panning technique. Follow the subject in action almost broadside, moving the camera in a smooth arc while centering the subject in the viewfinder. Set shutter speed at 1-50th or 1-100th. Press the cable release at the prefocused point — usually with subject closest to camera for the largest full image — but continue to follow through the arc on the subject.

If the camera's movement is properly synchronized with that of the subject, the skier, skater or sledder will be sharp while the background will show a blur of speed. It's a great way to show that junior is really Superman, the skating whirlwind.

For extra dividends in winter pictures, photographers must be alert for impromptu happenings in winter sports: a heap of laughing children suddenly dumped from a sled... a skater

Don't Blame Nuts for Obstruction

For years I begged my husband not to eat as many nuts as he does. Recently, he developed an intestinal obstruction and I'm sure the nuts did it. No one seems to agree with me. What do you think?

Mrs. G.C., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. C.:

I don't agree with you either. There is no relationship between eating nuts and intestinal obstruction.

Many people, like yourself, find it necessary to identify an illness with some past experience which usually has no connection whatsoever.

Intestinal obstruction is a complex problem that can be caused by a variety of conditions. Bands of adhesion, tumors, severe inflammation or vascular causes may be responsible.

Emergency methods, both medical and surgical, are necessary to restore the free flow of food and fluids through the obstructed bowel.

Chastising yourself and your husband for reasons that have no validity will impose a great burden on both of you and will not speed your husband's recovery.

I'm 41 and have had normal hearing. I woke about eight weeks ago with the realization that I was totally deaf in one ear. My hearing was normal before I went deaf. Can you explain it?

Mr. G.K., Ariz.

Dear Mr. K.:

Your story is not unusual, especially when it is told to an ear specialist.

A sudden loss of hearing, known as "sensory-neural" deafness, or "perceptive" deafness, may be the result of an injury, drugs, a viral disease, or a hemorrhage into the cochlea, a vital part of the inner ear hearing mechanism.

Exposure to loud noise over a long period of time, such as gunfire, airplane motors or other industrial noises, also may be responsible.

It is very difficult to predict how much hearing will return. Repeated examinations with an audiometer and the electronic instruments that are now available can detect the earliest return of function.

It is essential that the exact cause be established to safeguard the hearing in your other ear.

More difficult contracts are made when defenders slip than will ever be made by outstanding declarer play.

Consider this hand from Tuesday night at the Washington Duplicate Bridge Club where North-South arrived at a very unmakeable contract, three no trump.

Declarer has only five top tricks and little hope of developing many more. However, most of the responsibility for stopping declarer from stealing his contract lies with East. If West begins with a spade lead, South has no hope, but a club lead perfectly natural and was made at several tables.

Declarer takes the king of clubs in his hand and leads the king of diamonds. East's first opportunity to defeat the contract arises immediately. If East ducks the trick, South

Winners Tuesday night at the Washington Duplicate Bridge Club were Bruce Strickling and Mrs. Craig Vandermark with 65. Mrs. J.C. Wright and Mrs. Larry Coil were second with 60, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Zimmerman were third with 59. There were five full tables and par was 54.

With competition for the winter trophy two-thirds completed, Bruce Strickling, Frankfort, leads with 83 points. Mrs. Charles Fabb is second with 66.

The club meeting was held at the Madison Mills School immediately after school dismissal.

Lisa Melvin, past president, conducted the meeting. Caren Mowery led in the 4-H pledge and the Award of Achievement Certificate for Honor Club last year was on display for the group.

Election of new officers followed: Cheryl Blue, president; Brenda Delay, vice president; Pam Holler, secretary; Lisa Melvin, treasurer; Cynthia Blue, news reporter; Betty Woods, health leader; Lori Holler, safety leader; Coleen Blue, historian; Caren Mowery and Kathy Hanawalt, recreation leaders.

The card and stationary annual fund raising sale was voted on to be continued. The club voted to pay dues of $1.00 per year from each member.

The program committee consisting of Brenda, Cheryl, Lisa and Pam will meet at Cheryl's home before the next meeting to plan the year's program. Brenda will be in charge.

Twenty-four interested girls were present for our first meeting. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, March 11th, at the school from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Cynthia Blue, reporter
